Chances for Settlement of GM Strike Dim

• SOLONS DROP EFFORTS TO ACT ON TRUMAN PLAN

General Motors And UAW
Remain Deadlocked
For 25th Day

OFFICIALS ARE CALLED
Unofficial Board Summons
G-M And UAW To Capital
For Meeting

DETROIT, Dec. 15—Chances for settlement of the CIO United Automobile Workers strike against the giant General Motors system before the holidays appeared hopeless today.

Congress dropped all immediate efforts to pass President Truman's fact-finding legislation, aimed at ending the nation's labor ills, and negotiations between General Motors and representatives of the 175,000 UAW strikers remained deadlocked for the 25th day.

In Washington, the senate labor committee yesterday postponed hearings at least until Jan. 2 on Mr. Truman's labor legislation. Committee Chairman James E. Murray, D., Mont., said it would be impossible to get senate consideration before Christmas.

Nevertheless, the President's unofficial fact-finding board—operating without legal authority—summoned General Motors and UAW officials to Washington for a meeting next Wednesday to discuss procedure for public hearings Dec. 20, 21, 22, 28 and 29.

The General Motors delegation will be headed by President Charles E. Wilson, Vice President Harry W. Anderson and Steve du Brul, GM's director of labor economics. Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice president, indicated he would be present.

Little or no change in the automobile industry's labor picture was expected during the coming weekend, but negotiations were scheduled to be resumed on three fronts Monday.

In addition to General Motors and the Ford Motor company, the auto workers also will open contract talks with the Kaiser-Frazer corporation, the industry's newest firm.

Ford postponed yesterday's session with the consent of the union in order to study "certain matters" pertaining to the UAW's industry-wide demand for a 30 per cent wage increase. No details were given.

Richard T. Leonard, director of the UAW's Ford division, had demanded that the company consider its full wage demands immediately, but John S. Bugas, Ford's industrial relations director, insisted that he would not be in a position to talk about pay rates for 60 or 90 days.

A spokesman for Kaiser-Frazer said that the new auto maker, which hopes to get into production with 8,000 workers by Feb. 1, would offer a new formula for a labor-management security agreement, but he remained silent on the subject of wages.

Mother Suspected Of Murder After 'Kidnaped' Baby's Body Is Found

CHELSEA, Mass., Dec. 15—Mrs. Rose Carlan, 23, was held today on a suspicion of murdering her baby after she aroused the sympathy of the nation for 16 days with a growing lie that it had been kidnapped. A six-month-old Donald Carlan's body was found stuffed in the bottom of a built-in china closet in the Carlan tenement flat. An autopsy was being performed to determine the cause of the child's death.

Mrs. Carlan said the baby died while she was attending a party and she hid its body to keep neighbors from saying that she had neglected it.

The mother was to appear in court to be charged formally. Officials indicated they would ask that she be held on a murder charge.

The child's father, James J. Carlan, machinist's mate second class on a special furlough to find his missing son, was under a doctor's care, suffering from shock.

He had decided to stand by his wife, after threatening to kill her when he found she had been lying about the baby he had never seen.

The baby, wrapped in his bright blue bunting, was crammed under the bottom drawer of the closet, less than arm's reach from the bed where for 14 nights James Carlan comforted his "distracted" wife, renewing his vows of love and assuring her the child would be found alive.

Special Officer Matthew J. Flaherty found the body in a chill, tense moment late yesterday.

Flaherty, a father himself, had become suspicious of the story told by Mrs. Carlan—the high ransom and varying tales about the baby's milk bottles.

He began a search of the home, smiling, and attempting to put the Carlans at ease with his good humor. Flaherty strode into the bedroom of the four-room flat. A smile that flickered across Mrs. Carlan's face froze as he walked to the closet against which a bureau had been moved. He pushed the bureau aside.

Flaherty yanked out one drawer. Then another. Mrs. Carlan gasped as he pulled the bottom drawer free. It stuck for an instant, then slid out, revealing the edge of the blue bunting in which the baby had been wrapped. Flaherty (Continued on Page Two)

Army-Navy Squabble Gets Hotter

Words Fly Fast With Message From Truman On Merger Expected Soon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—The Army-Navy debate over the armed forces merger question reached white heat today with the approach of a White House decision on the issue.

High-ranking officials of the War and Navy departments—both civilians and gold braids—uttered such phrases as "ridiculous" and "oh yeah" in discussing each others' charges, counter-charges, inferences and innuendoes.

Meanwhile the Navy revealed it had withdrawn its endorsement of the Air Power League, a private organization whose avowed purpose is to foster development of military aviation. The Navy said the league was in cahoots with the Army in trying to put the unification plan across.

The Army-Navy debate has been in progress for weeks but it took on the tone of a backyard brawl shortly after White House (Continued on Page Two)

SENATE PLANS FUND APPROVAL

Appropriations Made For Almost Everyone But Congress Itself

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—The senate planned to pass today a $2,500,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill today benefiting almost everyone except congress itself.

In two test cases the senate yesterday rejected amendments which would have given an extra expense allowance to each senator and a pay raise to each senator and member of the house.

The senate, however dealt liberally with the hungry people of Europe. It approved tentatively an additional $750,000,000 for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration. This nearly doubled the $400,000,000 proposed by the senate appropriations committee.

The $750,000,000, if finally passed by both houses of congress, would be a down payment on a second $1,350,000,000 which the United States plans to contribute (Continued on Page Two)

GEN. MARSHALL STARTS MISSION TO CHUNG KING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—Gen. George C. Marshall left for Chungking by plane today on one of this country's most difficult diplomatic assignments as President Truman's personal representative to China.

The former Army chief of staff took off from Washington national airport in a deluxe C-54 transport at 9:06 a. m. EST. He is scheduled to arrive in Chungking next Thursday, Chungking time.

Even as Marshall was leaving, the controversy over this country's policies on China broke out anew as Rep. Hugh Delacy, D., Wash., again criticized the U. S. position toward her far eastern ally.

Speaking over a national radio network (NBC), Delacy charged that Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, former ambassador to China, caused Gen. Joseph Stilwell to be "removed" as chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Delacy said Hurley also was responsible for the resignation of former ambassador Clarence Gauss. Stilwell was recalled, he said, just as he was on the verge of success in bringing together all Chinese elements in the war against Japan.

"This is when Hurley first entered the act," he said. "Instead of backing Stilwell, he backed Chiang. He saw that Stilwell was removed."

BIG THREE TALKS SCHEDULED TO START TODAY

Foreign Ministers Meet In Moscow To Study World Problems

SEVERAL ISSUES UP
Byrnes Says 'Exploratory Exchange Of Views' Is Planned

MOSCOW, Dec. 15—Foreign ministers of the big three will meet today, if Ernest Bevin of Britain arrives as scheduled, to hunt common ground for handling the atomic bomb and settling other issues disturbing their postwar relations.

Bevin was expected by plane from Berlin, where he spent last night.

Secretary of State James Byrnes emphasized that his talks with Bevin and Foreign Commissar Viacheslav M. Molotov will be "an exploratory exchange of views" not necessarily leading to the announcement of any major decisions.

Byrnes arrived in Moscow late yesterday after a harrowing flight through a snowstorm in which his plane landed on a snow-covered Moscow airport with only a ten-minute supply of gasoline. The plane had flown through fog and snow at a 1,000-foot altitude for an hour before its Russian navigator spotted Moscow through a hole in the clouds.

Later, standing before the fireplace of Ambassador Averell Harriman's residence, Byrnes told Anglo-American correspondents that great progress in big three relations could be made only if there is direct understanding and a clarification of viewpoints.

"It is a great mistake to say that the three powers shouldn't meet unless agreement is certain in advance to announce the jury's verdict, as it were," he said.

"Our object is to permit an exploratory exchange of views and information on questions of mutual concern. The only purpose of the Moscow conference is to carry out the spirit of the Yalta agreement calling for a meeting of the three power ministers every three months in order to preserve contact among the governments."

Byrnes said he had proposed another meeting with Bevin and Molotov three months hence. He added that Generalissimo Stalin had insisted at Potsdam that the council of foreign ministers, which includes France and China, must not supercede or prejudice meetings of the big three ministers.

On the eve of the conference radio Moscow announced that the Soviet government had found "unsatisfactory" a note from Turkey answering a Russian protest against demonstrations in Istanbul early this month which the Russians called hostile to the Soviet Union.

Major questions up for discussion in addition to the atom bomb include allied relations in the Far (Continued on Page Two)

HESS CARRIED 6-POINT PEACE PLAN ON FLIGHT

NUERNBERG, Dec. 15—Rudolf Hess flew to Scotland in 1940 with a six-point peace proposal under which Germany would have had a free hand in Europe and Britain would retain her empire virtually intact.

The United Press learned today that when he parachuted down in the United Kingdom on May 10, Hess carried a fairly specific program for peace which he hoped to sell to the British.

The Nazi scheme was made conditional on the ouster of the government of Winston Churchill. An implication that Adolf Hitler was mixed up in it was given by Hess when he said:

"Churchill, who has planned the war since 1936, and his colleagues who lent themselves to his war policy, are not persons with whom the Fuehrer would negotiate."

BERLIN ORPHANS SEE KRIS KRINGLE

PROPERLY AWED but hungry for the goodies before them, these little Berlin orphans seem thin in contrast with their visitor—none other than Kris Kringle himself, impersonated by Arthur Schroeder, a local shopkeeper. The party was given by the Shopkeepers' Guild for 100 tots who had lost one or both parents in Nazi concentration camps. (International)

Pearl Harbor Probers Begin Second Month Of Public Hearings

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—Congress' Pearl Harbor investigating committee began its second month of public hearings today snarled by political turmoil and the necessity of changing its lawyers in mid-stream.

Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, former chief of war plans, was recalled to explain delays during the morning of December 7, 1941, in distribution of intercepted Japanese messages indicating the imminence of war. Gerow said yesterday he was in his office at least an hour and 20 minutes before he heard of the vital intercepts.

The committee is rushing to get the most possible use out of its four-man legal staff which resigned yesterday due to what it considered unwarranted dragging out of the hearings. The staff, headed by former U. S. Attorney General William D. Mitchell, agreed to stay on until early January to help a new staff take over.

Committee Chairman Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., said he might resign too. It was considered doubtful he would, however.

Barkley said the need to get the most out of the legal aides before they leave may affect committee plans for a recess tentatively (Continued on Page Two)

JAP COMMUNISTS NOW ENJOYING FIRST FREEDOM

TOKYO, Dec. 15—Japanese Communists are enjoying an unprecedented measure of freedom under the American occupation, and for the first time in their history they have been permitted to proclaim publicly their program for the political and economic "rebirth" of Japan.

Red leaders, many of them only recently freed from imperial prisons, are able to meet openly, to denounce whoever they please—including Hirohito and the imperial system—and to campaign freely for new members.

They claim they are getting many additional comrades from the ranks of Japanese women, that they are building up a strong youth organization, and that the official party newspaper Akahata, or Red Banner, is gaining circulation rapidly.

In the opinion of many observers, however, the Communists in Japan at present are not real Communists in the Marxian sense of the word. They appear to be just a little left of the Socialists, from whom they are trying to enlist support in the formation of a popular front coalition.

The Communist leaders are following this line in the hope of drawing strength from all left-wing political parties and thereby, in effect, winning control for themselves.

SNOW AND ICE REMAIN

Walking And Traveling By Motor Treacherous In City And County

Pickaway countians were warned Saturday to be ready for temperatures reading down to zero Saturday night and Sunday.

The weather forecast for Ohio stated: 'colder tonight, much colder Sunday. Temperature zero to five above in west portion, and five to ten above in east portion Sunday morning.

Circleville residents rolled out of bed reluctantly Saturday morning, put an extra shovelful of coal on the fire and really "froze" when they learned that the coldest temperature of the year had been recorded.

Weather Observer Roy Hawkes reported that the official thermometer dropped to 8 degrees above the zero mark Saturday morning. A high of 31 was recorded Friday.

Walking and motor traveling continued hazardous. Hard packed snow made sidewalks slippery while others were made treacherous by ice caused by water running from spouting onto walks.

Highway crews were still busy Saturday attempting to reduce the danger from hard packed snow and ice on the roads in the county. Main highways were reported in fairly good condition but side roads were treacherous.

A few horse-drawn sleighs appeared on the streets and every child that could find a sled was taking advantage of the first snow of the season.

Meanwhile no change in the city health situation was reported Saturday. City school children, except those of Franklin school, are asked to report Monday at 9 a. m. at the school buildings; so that cultures may be taken to determine if there are more carriers of diphtheria in the schools. The city schools will then be dismissed until after the holidays.

All of the county schools that have been closed will attempt to reopen Monday, but George McDowell, county superintendent, said he was not sure whether they would all be able to open or not, but that the attempts would be made. The flu seems to be getting worse instead of better in some sections, he said.

Relief from the nation's first cold wave will not come until Monday or Tuesday, weather forecasters said. (Continued on Page Two)

COUNTY BOARD GETS $500 FROM STATE FOR FAIR

For the first year since a special state appropriation was set up three years ago for county fairs, the Pickaway County Agricultural Society has received the maximum possible state aid grant.

R. C. Colville, treasurer was happily showing a check for $500 that he had received as state aid for the Junior Fair held last September.

Last year the Society got only $261 and less than $300 the year before. This year's big increase was due to Mr. Colville's work while in Columbus for the treasurers' convention and to the increased premium list. Very few counties drew the limit allowed.

casters said today as the midwest prepared for a sub-zero temperature drop tonight.

Below zero temperatures were expected in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Western Wisconsin, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado. Elsewhere in the midwest, the mercury was expected to hover near zero.

Eastern and southeastern states also were scheduled to see the mercury fall. Below freezing weather prevailed in Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas. Pennsylvania thermometers were expected to register 5 above zero by tonight.

Charlotte, N. C., reported one inch of snow in an unusual south-eastern flurry, but little additional snow was predicted over the nation.

Coldest city in the U. S. was Custer, Mont., with 30 below zero. Los Angeles, with a temperature of 33 and San Francisco with 31, had unusual frosts early yesterday but thermometers climbed back to the middle 60's during the day. A high of 83 was recorded at Miami.

Army-Navy Squabble Gets Hotter

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross announced that President Truman "in all probability" will send a message on unification to congress next week. The message, which will reveal the President's position on the issue, is expected to put an end to the inter-service frictions.

The President's message also may cause Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal to go through with his original plan to resign by the end of the year. Forrestal had abandoned that intention to stay on until the merger fight was resolved.

It was learned that an undated letter of resignation signed by Forrestal has been in Mr. Truman's hands ever since he became president. Political and naval circles reported that when Forrestal leaves he will be replaced by Edwin W. Pauley, the President's personal representative on reparations and Democratic national committee treasurer.

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson used a press conference to deliver a counter-punch at Forrestal for his recent charge that the Army is muzzling officers opposed to the merger plan. The charge, said Patterson, is "ridiculous." At a matter of fact, he added, every one knows that he called on Army officers to "freely express their own personal convictions with force and vigor."

Patterson's conference was attended by a Navy captain who obtained a mimeographed copy of some of the secretary's remarks and hurried back with it to Assistant Secretary of the Navy Struve H. Hensel. Hensel read it and promptly called his own press conference.

To a newsmen who called attention to Patterson's statement Hensel said "oh yeah" and then proceeded to read an order, purportedly signed by Brig. Gen. Henry I. Hodes of the chief of staff's office, enjoining Army officers to confine their public remarks to support of the merger. This order was signed on Nov. 5, 1945, Hensel said.

Hensel pointed out that Forrestal had issued a directive authorizing officers to speaking freely in public. More than that, he said, Forrestal had suggested a joint Army-Navy directive to accomplish the same thing but that when he brought a draft of the proposed order to the war department Patterson refused to sign it.

HELWAGEN BAGS DEER DURING EASTERN HUNT

Hunting was pretty poor because of crumbly, crunchy crust of a deep snow, but a party of hunters from this area who have returned from a deer-hunting expedition in Potter county, Pa., report that a good-time in the out-of-doors was had by all.

Only hunter out of the seven in the party to get a deer was Edward Helwagen. Mr. Helwagen said that the snow had a noisy crust making it difficult not to warn the deer of the hunter's approach. He said the ground was covered with a 14-inch blanket when they arrived and that it snowed two to three inches a day.

Others making up the hunting group were Edward Henn, Roy Beatty, "Bud" Helwagen, Paul Dixon of Chillicothe, Hoadley Adkins and H. White Campbell of Williamsport.

Mother Suspected Of Murder After 'Kidnaped' Baby's Body Is Found

pushed aside a shawl and some household tools.

Carlan and his wife screamed simultaneously when the baby's body was uncovered.

"I did not murder my baby," sobbed Mrs. Carlan, and faintly, "My God," Carlan said, "there's the baby."

He turned and started toward his wife. "I'll kill you," he shouted. Two policemen grabbed the stunned father, and led him from the room.

It was several hours later that he took his wife in his arms at the police station and sobbingly muttered: "I'll stick by you—yes—I promise I will."

Mrs. Carlan stoically submitted to three hours of questioning. She steadfastly maintained that the baby's death was an accident.

The baby died while she was at a party one Saturday night in her mother-in-law's flat in the same building, she told police. That was Nov. 24, four days before she reported the infant had been kidnapped after she had set him outside the dingy tenement for his regular airing.

"There was a party upstairs in my mother-in-law's apartment for my husband's brother, Eddie," Mrs. Carlan said. "He just came home from being discharged."

"I fixed Ronnie up for the night and put him in his crib. He went to sleep and I took Jimmie (the baby's three-year-old brother) along with me. I didn't see Ronnie alive again. Jimmie went to sleep while the party was going on."

"About half past 10 I came downstairs to get our phonograph and some records and needles. I took a look in at Ronnie and the blanket seemed to be over his head. I went into pull it down and he didn't seem to be breathing."

"There was froth on his mouth and he had his hands to his head. I lifted him right out of the crib and put him on the bed. I tried to start him breathing. Somebody told me you should blow in a baby's mouth and I tried it but it didn't do any good."

"I pulled his arms up and down but that didn't help and I patted his back but nothing happened."

"I was afraid nothing upstairs would miss me and come down. I left the baby on the bed and took the phonograph and records back up with me. I didn't say anything because I didn't want to spoil the rest of the party for the others."

"After the party broke up I came downstairs with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O'Brien, my husband's aunt and uncle. They wanted to use my phone to call a cab but I wouldn't let them in. I said I'd call for them. We had a little argument and then I made the call."

"When they finally went I sat around trying to think what to do. I didn't know where to turn. It was around five o'clock when I thought of a plan. I put Ronnie's hunting on him and then I laid him in the closet under the draw."

"Afterward I changed the room around and put the bureau up against the closet so it wouldn't be noticed too much. Then I went to bed."

"Tuesday I decided to try the rest of my plan. I put the carriage out on the sidewalk empty and waited until somebody noticed the baby wasn't in it. Then I was going to tell them it must have been kidnapped. Nobody noticed it that day."

"I did the same thing again Wednesday. That time Johnny Ames (an eight-year-old neighbor boy) ran in and told me that Ronnie was gone out of the carriage. That's when I told police that the baby was kidnapped. I guess it was about 2:30 in the afternoon."

From that point on, hundreds of persons including school children, searched for the missing baby. Mrs. Carlan made a radio appeal to the "kidnapers" and recited how the baby should be fed—it's exact formula.

Gov. Maurice J. Tobin broadcast an appeal. More than $3,500 was offered in rewards for the safe return of the child. Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston offered to act as intermediary.

Carlan was flown home on emergency leave from his Oakland, Calif., base. He had never seen his second child. There followed days of frantic searching, tracing down of false clues and ransom-demanding telephone calls.

FRANCE ASKS VIEWS

LONDON, Dec. 15—A foreign office spokesman said today that France has sent a note to London and Washington asking their views on relations with the Franco regime in Spain.

squadrons descended suddenly upon gathering places in four central London districts—Mayfair, Paddington, Soho and Vauxhall—which deserters are known to frequent.

British and American Army trucks pulled up at one dancehall and club after another. Soldiers threw a tight cordon around each building, while others checked the civilian national identity cards or military passes of everyone inside. British civilians still are required to carry their wartime identity papers.

Detectives in evening dress visited the Berkeley, Grosvenor house, the Dorchester and other elite west end hotels. They also moved politely but firmly through a number of wealthy restaurants.

Road blocks were established at strategic points in subway and railroad stations and outside restaurants. Police teams searched hundreds of "pubs" where Londoners gathered for their evening beer and gin drinking.

Police reported that most soldiers and civilians took the raids good-naturedly. No fights or efforts to escape questioning were mentioned in early reports.

Civilian and military police authorities have blamed much of London's current crime wave on deserters. Many of these men, without any regular source of income, were believed to be hiding in the city and supporting themselves by holdups and burglaries. An exceptional number of jewel thefts have occurred within the past few weeks.

London's rambling layout, with thousands of buildings situated in obscure streets and alleys, is an aid to men in hiding. Several previous raids on a smaller scale, some of them before the war ended, have helped to check desertions.

37TH WELCOME PARTY WILL BE HELD SUNDAY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 15—An Army C-47 transport plane was due to arrive at Columbus today, bringing Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler and his staff of the 37th (Ave) Division to the end of their four-year homeward from the Pacific.

Final preparations were being made for the events scheduled for today and tomorrow welcoming the 37th veterans home. A parade was planned at 2 p. m. Sunday to include all veterans of the armed forces in the welcome.

In the line of march will be elements of the Ohio State Guard, veterans of the 37th in World War I, veterans organizations, World War I veterans, and fraternal organizations. Gen. Beightler will ride the length of the parade, rather than drop out at the reviewing stand.

The official welcoming exercises will follow the parade, on the west steps of the state house. Gov. Frank J. Lausche and Mayor James A. Rhodes will speak for Ohio and the city of Columbus, and Rev. Ralph Simester, a former Army chaplain, will speak for those who did not return.

George M. Ward was in charge of the day's program, while Col. Robert Haubrich was named as marshal of the parade.

Gen. Beightler was also scheduled to speak at a banquet for 37th Division men Sunday evening. A dance, with all veterans invited, will be held Sunday night.

WILSON PLANS TO LEAVE TO ESCAPE NEW SENTENCE

Onno Wilson, 38, who gave his address as "city building," and who has been a constant visitor to city and county jails during the past few years has decided to leave town rather than serve one year in the county jail which had been imposed on him by Mayor Ben H. Gordon. He was given the option of the two choices.

Wilson had been arrested 11 times on drunk and disorderly charges and once for intoxication in the past three years, police records show. He was charged with being a habitual offender after being arrested again Friday.

East centering around control of Japan, and big three relations with Iran.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said that Soviet troops will withdraw from Iran strictly in accordance with the Anglo-Soviet-Italian treaty, in March, 1946. It raised the question of why British troops are still occupying many countries and what American troops are doing in China and Egypt.

(The Iranian government has been urging immediate withdrawal of all foreign troops. Russia and Britain have rejected an American proposal for a joint withdrawal by Jan. 1.)

Byrnes told his press conference he was optimistic about the situation in Germany. He thought conditions were improving steadily and noted that the civilian administration was taking over new matters.

Byrnes arrived poorly equipped for the sub-zero Moscow weather. He was without overcoats and wore an unlined overcoat with an ordinary grey felt hat.

Confusion about his arrival, due to the dangerous weather conditions, caused Harriman to rush to the wrong airport and miss Byrnes' landing. The Russians apparently foresaw a possible mix-up, for they had reception delegations at both Moscow airports.

Another new item was $1,650,000 for remodeling and expanding the White House.

The committee also offered an amendment which would have given each senator an expense allowance of $2,500 yearly. Members of the house of representatives already receives such an allowance, but the senate turned it down, 47 to 24.

Sen. John H. Bankhead, D., Ala., then suggested the senators boost their $10,000-per-year salary to $13,000. This also was rejected, 45 to 23.

Sen. Glen H. Taylor, D., Ida., noted that Louis B. Mayer, motion picture executive, earned $900,000 last year—"more than the whole senate got." Some senators recalled President Truman's remarks that congressional salaries should be raised in order to retain high-caliber men and encourage others to run for office rather than seek private jobs.

Pearl Harbor Probers Begin Second Month Of Public Hearings

scheduled to start Saturday. It may require a later recess during which the new staff can get acquainted with the background and the tasks ahead.

Barkley said he didn't have any idea when new counsel would be appointed but it wouldn't be this week. He said he had no candidates in mind at present.

Sen. Over Brewster, R., Me., renewed his campaign to get the job for Hugh Fulton, chief counsel of the senate war investigating committee when President Truman was its chairman.

Brewster had favored appointment of Fulton from the first. He said he didn't know, however, whether Fulton would agree to take over the job in the middle.

Other committee members agreed that it was asking much of any attorney to take over the job after the groundwork already has been laid by other attorneys.

Mitchell's charges of unwarranted delays obviously were aimed principally at Sen. Homer Ferguson, R., Mich., the most persistent interrogator on the 10-man joint senate-house committee.

Ferguson was unperturbed. He said he didn't think that the examination of witnesses has been unduly lengthy. He said he intended to continue examining witnesses whenever he felt it necessary to get all the facts before the committee.

The intercepts Gerow was being questioned about included a 14-part message ending diplomatic conversations on the delicate far western situation and instructions to Japanese ambassadors to deliver it at 1 P. M. EST.

Records show the first 13 parts of the diplomatic message were intercepted and translated the night of Dec. 6. The 14th part and the 1 P. M. instruction were intercepted and translated the following morning.

Gerow disagreed with Marshall's testimony that, in looking backward, Short's response was inadequate.

"It could be construed that the department was alerted against sabotage and also was preparing to conduct reconnaissance and other defense measures," Gerow explained.

Gerow said he thought the Nov. 27 war warning sent to Short and other Pacific command was "a very positive and clear-cut directive."

JURORS DRAWN

Grand and petit jurors for the January session of common pleas court were to be drawn Saturday by the jury commission composed of W. D. Heiskell, Fred R. Nichols, Charles Radcliff and A. L. Wilder.

She is survived by the daughter, Mrs. Ebert, and two brothers, Frank Mavis, East Mound street and Robert Mavis, Amanda, Route 2.

Funeral services will be held Monday at the Ebert home, with the Rev. Clarence Swearingen, pastor of the First Methodist church, of which she was a lifelong member, officiating.

Burial will be in Forest cemetery by Mader funeral home.

The Canteen Dance scheduled for tonight has been indefinitely postponed. —ad.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Secretary of State Byrnes goes to Moscow! He says the Iranian government will make the trek also. So both Mohammed and the mountain go to Moscow.

The senate, as all knowing individuals here, is worried. Realizing this, before his departure, the state secretary took both the senators and the press into his confidence in off-the-record meetings.

The attitude of the worried senators and individuals is this:

The Truman-Byrnes foreign policy has been working well, by comparison with the appeasement policy of the Roosevelt administration, designed to goad the Russians to ever greater war against the Nazis.

We have not established much, except our position in China. We have lost in Iran. The Russians are in the process of conquering that country.

But at least we have not lost abjectly. We have won and lost, by defending our position, the Roosevelt Atlantic Charter, against make believe freedom for peoples and world-democracy. We have ceased to lose every conference.

We ceased our losing because we had an adamant attitude, for what we believed was right. Does Mr. Byrnes' trip to Moscow mean we have abandoned that attitude?

Frankly, the senators think it may. They think generally appeasement of Britain (with money) is to be followed by appeasement of Russia (with atom bombs, concessions, eye-blinking regarding Iran, China, and similar pretensions that conquest of Europe and Asia by Russia is unthinkable.)

The mere fact that Mr. Byrnes goes to Moscow with atom bomb in hand reminds them of Chamberlain at Munich. That also meant "peace in our time," remember?

Their understanding is reinforced by two facts which I think have been unpublished, certainly have not been mentioned prominently:

(A) Mr. Byrnes dropped his adviser Jimmy Dunn for the Moscow trip (Dunn had been charged by Moscow enthusiasts as being Fascist, Catholic and otherwise unsympathetic with Moscow causes) and Mr. Byrnes is taking in Dunn's place Freeman Mathews, a butterfly diplomat, who has skipped around the world in his assignments, yet never got the reputation of being against Russian interests.

Mr. Byrnes is also taking John Carter Vincent, head of the Far Eastern division, which Pat Hurley said was sabotaging American foreign policy (the Democrats sure stopped Hurley, didn't they, Senator Connally?)

In answer and apology to this line of thought, Mr. Byrnes' people explain a crisis of the United Nations organization is now at hand, due to Russian lack of cooperation. If UNO is to be saved, Mr. Byrnes must save it at Moscow, they say.

Unless Molotov shows up at the January 7 meeting of the assembly in London, it will mean Russia has turned thumbs down on the Roosevelt formula for world peace.

The meeting has been advertised as a routine assemblage of the foreign ministers, as promised by Stalin to Roosevelt and Churchill at Yalta. My inside information is that Mr. Byrnes went to his office on a recent Sunday and began reading the Yalta agreements. They say he found the agreements calling for meetings of the foreign ministers every three months. "They also called for independence of Iran." These meetings had not been held.

Rhinoplasty—Nose Operations

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
OPERATIONS on the nose to improve the appearance or to better the function of the nose, that is, to free the air passages, are called rhinoplasty. A deformity on the inside of the nose, such as one which affects the nasal septum, which is the wall separating the two inner sides of the nose, frequently is associated with external deformity, such as bending of the nose to one or the other side, a hump on the bridge of the nose, twisting of the tip of the nose, or widening of the base.

Hence, in carrying out rhinoplasty, putting the nasal septum in proper position is important. According to Doctor Raymond S. Rosedale of Canton, Ohio, a rhinoplasty to improve the appearance should be carried out only on mentally stable individuals who can offer a good reason for desiring a change in the appearance of the nose.

Carefully Planned
Rhinoplasty must always be carefully planned. The length of the nose and its relation to contour of the face are important. If the upper lip is unduly short, then the operation should be planned to lengthen the lip. Sometimes, it is necessary to take tissues from other parts of the body and graft them into the nose to make up for loss of tissue from the nose due to injury or disease.

In carrying out a rhinoplasty, the function of the nose should always be remembered, and no operation should be done which will impair this function. Most of the time, however, the operation improves the way in which the nose works. The operations are not done in persons who have not reached their full growth, except under special circumstances. Furthermore, rhinoplasty should not be carried out when the person has an active infection of the nose.

Splint Applied
After the operation is done, a splint is usually applied to the nose and the patient is put to bed to rest. As a general rule, according to Doctor Rosedale, the patient should be kept in the hospital for two to three days and after five days, he can return to work. The stitches are taken out after the fifth day.

Frequently, after operations on the nose, there is some swelling of the face and discoloration of the skin around the eyes. This usually clears up within ten days.

THE BIRTHDAY MURDER
By LANGE LEWIS

SYNOPSIS
Hollywood registered surprise when life lay ahead of her. But this year she had almost forgotten it. She had no way then of knowing that her thirty-fifth was to be the most memorable of all the birthdays of her life.

The minute she saw Bernice Sax standing there in the doorway she knew something was wrong, terribly wrong. Bernice Sax was her oldest friend. They had known each other since they had been children of 12, and although their lives had taken very different patterns, they had remained friends down the years. Bernice was a tall, pretty woman with a little-girl voice that contrasted oddly with her size. She spent a great deal of time and money on her clothes, which were always of the best. Her large face was beginning to show a tendency to sag around the jaw line; she used a pink net strap at night. She had very beautiful small feet and her shoes cost as much as many women spend on an entire outfit. Today she was wearing a handsome gray plaid suit which displayed her fine figure to advantage. Over it was tossed a silver fox scarf, a Christmas gift from her husband, Walter. She was wearing no hat, and this was odd, for Bernice loved hats almost as much as shoes. Her shining chestnut hair, worn sleek and smart against her head, was very slightly disarrayed, and this, too, was unusual. But the oddest thing of all was the fact that Bernice was clutching a green lizard bag, although her shoes and gloves were black suede, and there was no touch of green elsewhere about her costume. She stood in the doorway with her shining brown eyes opened very wide, and Bernice and the feeling that at any moment she might topple over and crash to the tiled floor of the porch.

Victoria reached out and took Bernice's hand. Even though the black suede glove Bernice's hand seemed stiff and cold. Her fingers did not close on Victoria's, but remained in position. It was like holding the hand of a mannequin in a store window.

Bernice took three steps forward and then said: "I don't know what to do."

Victoria led her into the narrow hall where the many bottles of an improvised bar stood in a deep window embrasure opposite the telephone niche.

"I'm going to get you a drink," she said.

"Walter's found out everything!" Bernice shrieked in her tiny voice.

"There was a letter months ago that I lost and Stan's letter was always so affectionate and Walter found it, but I didn't know that. And then he began to notice things, and today he made a scene and he is going to divorce me."

Victoria held out a small glass of whiskey. Bernice looked down at it and said, "You know I can't stand straight whiskey!" So Victoria added seltzer and then went to the kitchen, Bernice talking at her heels, where she wrestled ice out of the tray. Bernice took the glass from her. Moisture on its side wet her suede glove but she did not notice that, and she drank thirstily, making "le sucking noises like a child."

"Let's go into the living room," Victoria said.

The ice tinkled in Bernice's glass as she followed, and her high heels clicked on the floor. She was silent for long enough to sit down on the sofa and finish her drink. She stared at the silver tea things, still on the low table. Then she burst out: "Walter was dreadful, cold and icy, as though I was in the witness box. And he means it, Victoria! He means it! He'll do it! I'll have all the disgrace of his getting the divorce and not a cent of alimony!"

"Your husbands are like that," Victoria said.

"The things he said to me! Oh, no name calling, but it was worse than that! And the slyness of it, suspecting it for so long and just biding his time!"

"I imagine that the fact it was Stan annoyed him as much as anything else. Stan's so obviously a bounder, to use the term Walter probably used in speaking of him."

"Well! How did you know?"

"Victory, try to figure it as the world well lost for love."

"But I can't. What would I live on?"

"It's not your fault," said Victoria. "It's your upbringing that's to blame."

"My mother was a good woman!"

"Yes. She was. She raised you to believe that your beauty should command the highest price in order to justify its existence. You married a man of 38 when you were 20. You didn't love him. Remember what she said when you got cold feet and told her you didn't want to go through with the wedding?"

"She said, 'But the invitations are all out,'" recalled Bernice.

"Yes. So you divorced him when you were 27. I don't particularly blame you for that. But..."

What she was about to say congealed in her mouth. She couldn't say it.

More Navy Court-Martial Trials May Follow Soon
Tire Rationing May End As Early as January 1

Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—The court-martial trial of Capt. Charles B. McVay III in connection with the sinking of the Cruiser Indianapolis in the Pacific last July is expected to be the first of several. As a result, a number of naval officers are quaking in their boots.

One question which is being asked around the Navy department in Washington is why someone did not order a search for the Indianapolis when she failed to show up in Leyte on schedule.

The Navy decided to air the sinking of the Indianapolis in public hearings because relatives and friends of the men who were casualties swamped the Bureau of Personnel and Congress with demands for an explanation of the heavy losses.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS are saying that, if present tire production is maintained, an end of tire rationing may be expected around Jan. 1. Present production is about four million tires per month. Current tire inventories have reached about five million.

The government has not intended to continue rationing until supply was on an even level with demand. If rationing is ended around the turn of the year, the public will be able to satisfy part, but not all, of its needs.

The Christian's Place in Nation's Life

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL (The International Uniform Lesson for Dec. 9 is Matt. 5: I Timothy 2:1-4; Titus 3:1-8; I Peter 2:1-17; The Memory Verse being Psalm 33:12; "Blessed is the nation whose God is Jehovah.")

THE SERMON on the Mount was delivered by Jesus near Capernaum. Great multitudes of people had followed Jesus, and seeing this great concourse of people, Jesus went up into the mountain and delivered this beautiful sermon, showing what the Christian's place was in the life of his nation.

The Sermon is a declaration of blessedness, not to certain different people, but to different elements of excellence which might be all combined in one person. Blessed are the poor in spirit; blessed are the meek; blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness; blessed are the merciful; blessed are the pure in heart; blessed are the peace makers. "Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely for My sake. Rejoice and be exceedingly glad: for great is your reward in heaven."

Right after the saying concerning the blessedness of being persecuted and reviled for righteousness' sake are the statements that "ye are the salt of the earth," and "the light of the world." Truly the good man or woman is likely to be persecuted and reviled in this world. His or her goodness—truth, honesty, purity of life, etc., set him apart as "different." He may be called anything, from a hypocrite to a "sissy" for his stand. He can, however, comfort himself by Jesus' saying that he is the salt of the earth and a light in the world.

Let Light Shine

"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Not boasting of the good works, you understand, but quietly and steadily going your way so that all may see what manner of person you are.

Then Jesus refers to the old Mosaic laws, and points out that Christians should not only obey them, but go further. The law said, "Thou shalt not kill," but Jesus said, "Whoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in judgment." If he call his brother or bad names he shall be in danger of hell fire. Under those circumstances, do not make an effort to God, said the Lord. First be reconciled to your brother, and after that make your offering with a clean heart.

Other old laws, on family relations, divorce, swearing, etc., are included, and then the old law, "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil; but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

"Ye have heard it said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you: for he that loveth his enemy, what reward does that bring? Everyone does that. To be the children of your Father which is in heaven, you must be good to everyone. For He maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and the unjust." Think of these last words when you are tempted to criticize anyone.

"Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."

Christian Obeys the Law

The Christian is law abiding. writes Paul in his first letter to Timothy. Our supplications should be given "for all men: for kings and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty."

Practically the same thing Paul wrote to Titus, and in Peter's first epistle to "the strangers" he also echoes the thought of submission to government. Now there are people who call attention to themselves by always opposing whatever rulers may be in power. They are trouble makers always, hoping to get attention for themselves by their revolts. This type of person is reproved by the words of Jesus, Paul and Peter.

"Put them in mind to be subject to principalities and powers," wrote Paul to Titus, "to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work."

"To speak evil of no man, to be no brawlers, but gentle, shewing all meekness unto all men."

"To be perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect," is almost impossible for human beings, but all can try, and if any considerable number of persons would live as Jesus directed, what a different place this world would be!

CHRISTMAS IS TO BE STRESSED AT U. B. CHURCH

Sunday's morning worship at the First United Brethren church will take on a decided Christmas tone when the pastor, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, delivers the first of his Christmas messages while the choir and organist continue their programs of Yuletide music.

"The Five Points of the Bethlehem Star" will be the theme of the Rev. Mr. Wilson's sermon at 10:30 a. m. He will read the St. Matthew version of the Bethlehem Star and then turn his attention to the prophecy of Isaiah 9:6. The Rev. Mr. Wilson says, "This inspired Old Testament patriarch gives us the five points of the Bethlehem Star: Wonderful—Counselor—The Mighty God—The Everlasting Father—the Prince of Peace. To no other being could be ascribed these five glorious titles but to Him who was flesh and dwelt among men. When properly appreciating the significance of the Bethlehem Star, which became the true light of the world, we, like the Wisemen of Old, shall come to worship Him and shall give expression of gladness with exceedingly great joy, for a Savior, who is come to save people from sin and who is Jesus Christ, the Lord."

Introducing the sermon the choir with Charles Kirkpatrick directing will render Philip Brooks' beautiful hymn creation, "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Continuing their Nativity selections on the organ, Miss Lucille Kirkwood has chosen "Christmas Fantasy" by Mueller; "Sweet and Low" by Barnby and "March of the Shepherds" by Mallard for the prelude, offertory response and postlude, respectively.

The Christmas story will be the object lesson for the Junior Church while studying the general theme, "Listening In to God's Warnings." Evangelistic services at 7:30 o'clock will strike a timely note with the Rev. Mr. Wilson speaking on the theme, "Spiritual Reconstruction Plan."

Returned servicemen and women will be honored in a special recognition service at Calvary Evangelical church Sunday morning.

Appreciation will be shown in two ways. The new steeple chimes just installed will be dedicated to the honor of all servicemen and women from the homes of families and friends of Calvary church. A special certificate of recognition, signed and framed, will be given to each of the discharged veterans from the homes of members and friends of the congregation.

A printed "Service of Welcome and of Remembrance" will be used throughout the service. The service starts at 10 a. m.

Mrs. Andrew Goeller will sing the offertory solo "A Perfect Day." This is a request from a mother of several veterans. The choir will sing the anthem "His Name Is Wonderful," by Forrest G. Walter.

The new steeple chimes were made possible by donations from relatives and friends of servicemen and women. Numbers will be presented from the tower from time to time.

Evening worship service begins at 7:30 p. m. The Rev. B. F. Borcoman will preach the sermon "The Real Christmas Message."

CANTATA TO BE PRESENTED BY COMBINED CHOIR

"The Choir of Bethlehem" will be presented for the first time at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Kingston Presbyterian church.

This new cantata is by Noel Benson. Mrs. B. F. Borcoman, director of music in Calvary church, is directing the combined choir made up of Calvary Evangelical church, Yellow Bud Bethlehem Evangelical church and Kingston Mt. Pleasant Presbyterian church with singers from the Kingston high school chorus also participating.

Slide pictures are coordinated with the beautiful cantata music to portray the real Christmas message. Much intense preparation has gone into this production and the results promise to be exceptionally satisfactory.

The cantata and slide picture program will be presented by the combined choir on Christmas Sunday night in Calvary Evangelical church at 8 p. m.

The public is invited to attend these presentations of the Christmas story.

CHEST X-RAYS IN INSTITUTIONS START MONDAY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 15.—The first of approximately 40,000 chest X-Rays of patients and employees in state institutions will be made Monday, opening a tuberculosis control program in co-operation with the state health department, department of welfare officials announced today.

The first X-rays Monday will be made at the state school for mentally deficient at Columbus. The 31,000 patients and employees at the state's 15 mental institutions are to be X-rayed first, followed by those at penal and correctional institutions.

The work will be done by two technicians loaned to the department by the U. S. Public Health Service, operating a mobile unit, according to Dr. Mark W. Garry, chief of the division of tuberculosis of the state health department.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

The publicity men may claim that the San Francisco conference came in April (against Yalta's January) and Potsdam came in July, and London in September—but these were not meetings of the foreign ministers as prescribed. The only one which was what was prescribed was the London gathering in September, and it broke up in complete failure, due to Russian opposition.

Mr. Byrnes thought, my departmental informants tell me: How about another foreign ministers meeting? He got Russian consent first (he needed it after the straight Moscow rebuff of his Iranian note requesting early Russian withdrawal of troops from Iran) and in spite of the fact that Mr. Truman had, just the day before, announced he expected no meetings of the big three, but thought the UNO could take care of everything.

In the face of the President, Mr. Byrnes asserted the White House had confused the distinction between colossal big three's (Truman, Attlee and Stalin) and ordinary big three's (Molotov, Bevin and Byrnes). The latter meeting, he thought highly desirable, and arranged it.

What the senators think is that the Roosevelt people in this country (Mrs. Roosevelt's promotionists, CIO, the auto workers, etc.) raised such a publicity opposition to Byrnes, even causing communist pickets to demand his ousting in front of his state department for one day, that he became frightened of the domestic political consequences of his non-losing policy and decided to embark upon appeasement—which is what the Roosevelt radicals want.

For the present only, they will keep quiet in hopes that the agreements at Moscow will be fair and valid. The situation is so serious I will begin an analysis of world conditions and will pursue it to its ultimate factual truth if it takes four or five columns.

OBITUARY

Ronnie Lee Smith, infant son of Van and Carrie Smith, was born June 12, 1944 and departed this life December 11, 1945 at the age of one year and 6 months.

Little Ronnie leaves behind, father, mother, two sisters, Eleanor and Priscilla May and one brother, Van Junior. Three grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith and Mrs. Mary Ferguson and many other relatives to mourn his passing.

Our little one was a happy baby, but always so frail. We know God has chosen this tender bud to blossom in his heavenly garden and that Jesus who said "Suffer little children to come unto Me" has tenderly carried him home.

A tiny soul, a troubled world, God must have loved him so; He let him stay just a little while. Then called him back to you.

God took the sunshine from the skies, With gold, He spun his hair, God called Ronnie home again. It makes life seem so bare.

We hear the patter of little feet, of children we know and love. We'll stop and think of little Ronnie. At home in heaven above.

BIG 10 HEADS VOTING AGAIN ON ELIGIBILITY

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—The Big Ten athletic conference granted a temporary reprieve today to more than a dozen athletes who were ruled ineligible at its meeting here six days ago.

Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson of the Big Ten announced that a mail vote of the conference's faculty representatives was underway for reconsideration of an eligibility rule enacted at Saturday's meeting, which sidelined such stars as Ned Postels, regular on Iowa's champion basketball team; Bob and Ross Hume, Michigan's famed running brothers; Bob Fitch, Minnesota weight man, and George Mikan, DePaul All-American basketball center.

DePaul, as well as Notre Dame and Marquette, voluntarily abided by the Big Ten code.

The faculty board, conference legislative body, reinstated the Big Ten's amateur rule Saturday, "effective immediately," but the mail ballot proposes that the date of effectiveness be postponed until the close of the present sports season, which includes such sports as basketball, indoor track, wrestling and boxing.

The mail ballot was instigated, Wilson said, after numerous queries from conference members and "other colleges which voluntarily abide by our rules."

FIND HOME FOR OFFICER

COLUMBUS, Dec. 15.—A little enterprise and some publicity today had found a home for Lt. James Cary, the merchant marine officer who passed out handbills explaining his plight on a downtown Columbus street corner.

A newspaper story on his situation resulted in 17 phone calls, and he accepted an offer to share a home with Joe Alexander. Lt. Cary will go to Phillipsburg, N. J., for his wife and nine-week-old son, then return in time to enroll in Ohio State university around the first of the year.

JACK AND JOYCE TO MEET AGAIN TO QUIET FANS

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Brawny Beau Jack and artful Willie Joyce will meet again, probably in February, to settle the widespread dispute over their 10-round thriller last night at Madison Square Garden from which Beau emerged with the unanimous but thunderously unpopular decision.

Ring officials agreed on the verdict, but the 16,231 fans—who paid $70.071 booed for five minutes, and boxing writers still were debating their own varied scoring today.

The sharply contrasting styles of the two negro principals made it an excellent, close fight—so close that the United Press scored four rounds for each, and two even.

Bull-shouldered Beau, an ex-soldier who was making his first start in 16 months, fought in the same abandoned, slam-bang fashion that featured his campaigning in the days when he won and lost the New York version of the lightweight championship. Like a berserk bushman swatting at humble bees, the former star of battle royals at Augusta, Ga., forced the fighting throughout—launching wild swings, hooks and bolo-uppercuts from all angles. Half of them whooshed harmlessly through the air. Once, in the first round, Beau was carried almost to the canvas by the force of his own miss.

HEATH FOR CASE TRADE IS MADE BY CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—George Washington Case, fleet-foot outfielder, will replace Jeff Heath, slugging fly-chaser, on the Cleveland Indian roster next Spring.

The Tribe traded Heath to Washington for Case Friday in a straight player exchange with no cash involved.

The Indians have been trying to get rid of Heath for three years because of his temperament. Case won the American League base-stealing championship five years in a row before being dethroned by George Starnweiss of the Yankees.

RAMS AND SKINS BATTLE FOR PRO TITLE SUNDAY

Cleveland Coach Says His Entire Team In Perfect Shape For Game

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—The Cleveland Rams made it clear today they would have no excuses should they lose Sunday's National Football league championship playoff game with the Washington Redskins.

"Our entire team will take the field in perfect shape," said Coach Adam Walsh. "Our star end, Jim Benton, has recovered from a cold and is ready to go."

Walsh said he had devoted much of this week's practice to pass defense in anticipation of Sammy Baugh and Frank Filchock, and that he believed the Rams' ace passer and defenceman, Quarterback Bob Waterfield, would counter the Redskin aerial game.

"We expect our toughest game of the year and we've prepared for it," the coach said. "I think the teams are as evenly matched as is possible."

Cleveland defeated Washington, 21 to 0, in an early-season exhibition game, but Walsh discounts that victory, pointing out that the Redskins are vastly improved since September.

The weather was expected to have some effect on the outcome. Intermittent snowstorms during the week made it necessary to cover the field with straw and canvas, and another such storm Sunday probably would hurt Washington more than Cleveland. Baugh's passes have been the backbone of the Redskin attack, while Cleveland has shown power both on the ground and in the air.

Waterfield's passes have accounted for more than half the Rams' scores, but his slight-of-hand

Postmaster Warns Late Mailers To Send Packages At Once

HOLIDAY MAIL LIGHTER THAN IN PAST YEARS

Packages Mailed At Last Minute May Not Arrive By Christmas

"Mail now if you expect to get your Christmas gifts delivered by Christmas" was the advice issued Saturday by Postmaster A. Hulbe.

Business at the post office has been much lighter than at this same time in the last few years, Mr. Hays stated. He fears that many people are waiting until the last minute to mail their packages.

He stated that if that happens many gifts will arrive late. Before the war postal officials worked overtime to get all gift packages to their destination before Christmas but it cannot be done this year, Mr. Hays stated. He explained that many hundreds of postal employees are still in the armed services despite the fact that the war is over and the present staff of the nation cannot handle a big last minute rush.

Every effort is being made here to aid late mailers, Mr. Hays said. Saturday the office is open all day instead of closing at noon as usual. Next Saturday a full day's schedule is planned also. Two deliveries were to be made Saturday and will be made next Saturday instead of the usual one on Saturday.

Evening hours also will be observed next Thursday. In the past December 20 has usually been the busiest day of the mailing season and this year the office will be open from 7 to 9 p. m. on that date.

The fact that many service men and women who were overseas or in service camps and training centers during the last few years may account for the slowdown in post office business. Many servicemen also are en route home and relatives and friends would not mail gifts because they thought they would be home by Christmas, or at least on the way.

Mr. Hays reminded Circleville residents that all Christmas packages and other mail sent to APO 729, care postmaster, Seattle, Washington, for service personnel stationed in the Aleutians between September 15 and October 15 had been lost in a storm. Christmas packages may be sent to that address until next Thursday, December 20, without the usual request from the service man. This ruling was made by the government after the mail was reported lost so that friends and relatives might have another chance to mail Christmas packages and letters to men stationed in the Aleutians.

OHIOAN TO BE NAMED TO GET DRAFT AWARD

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 15.—A total of 1004 Ohioans are eligible for the drawing to pick a member of some draft board in Ohio to go to Washington January 21 to receive a special medal from President Truman.

The fish bowl lottery process will be used Tuesday to pick a volunteer board member from Ohio who has served five years to receive the award. Similar awards will be presented on the same date to draft board representatives from other states.

Expenses of the trip will be paid by the federal government under an act of Congress authorizing public recognition for the uncompensated members of the draft system.

Eventually all draft board members who have served two or more years will receive similar awards, Souther said.

Physicians and dentists giving physical examinations to prospective inductees also will receive medals later.
